The College also prides itself on the support it gives to students so that they may develop their abilities and citizenship skills to be productive members of society.

Delivering knowledge and skills to over seven thousand young people and adults each year demonstrates the key role the College plays in the community. We take this responsibility very seriously and this is why the College continues to develop its wider role by fostering and embedding productive relationships with employers, schools, universities and other key stakeholders. Working with our partners we have a College that everyone may be proud of, that meets the aspirations of all.

Our three Strategic Aims demonstrate our aspiration for excellence, our focus on quality, commitment to the community and the delivery of excellent value for money.
